

The outcome of an SSU education can bridge the gaps.

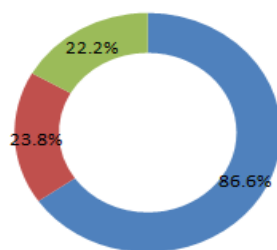

One of the best measures of our success as a university is what our students are able to do after graduation and who they become.

Explore the real world outcomes of our students

(Data collected from 39% of the Class of 2015)

Where do SSU graduates go?

Results are based on First Destination data six months after graduation. "Graduate school" includes students enrolled in or preparing to enroll in further study.

All Students

- Working
- Graduate School
- Seeking Employment
- Peace Corps/ AmeriCorps
- Military

Where do SSU graduates work?

Bears are employed in every sector around the world.

Click here to view more companies

Where do SSU graduates study?

Bears are admitted or plan to enroll to top graduate and professional programs worldwide.

Click here to view more grad schools

What do SSU graduates earn?

Bears command competitive salaries across industries and sectors.

Internships and real-world experience

Over one-fourth of SSU students take advantage of internships during their college experience, building desirable skills while connecting classroom learning to real world situations in the for-profit, non-profit, government, and service sectors.

Working closely with Student Career Development (SCD), students have access to hundreds of internships annually. Internships can be completed locally or out-of-the-area. Most students elect to register their internships for academic credit.

1/4 + of our students complete an internship.

400 + internships available.